MESSAGE FROM PRESIDENT JOE HASSINGER

"How we behave as the boss at work today, affects what goes on around the dinner table in other people's homes tonight." James Hunter.

It is critical that our supervisors - those who are responsible for and to others, continually demonstrate effective leadership. Here are a few things that outstanding supervisors do: (1) They treat others like they want to be treated; (2) They exude integrity - honesty, sincerity, consistency, and credibility. In other words, they say what they mean and do what they say; (3) They set the example; (4) They show humility. Stated otherwise, they don't put their success and ego ahead of others, and when things go wrong, they take responsibility; (5) They listen and communicate well; (6) They inspire the best in people and acknowledge others.

What may seem a small deed by a supervisor -- a simple "thank you," for example, or a rude reaction -- can have a huge impact on a coworker. Keep that in mind, and strive day in and day out to make your impact a positive one.

Excellence in the Workplace

Carl Allen Recognized by Board as Employee of the Month

The Flood Protection Authority recognized Carl Allen, Operations and Maintenance Employee of the Month, at its April 20th Board meeting. Carl is a Maintenance Repairer 2 in the floodgate maintenance crew. Carl joined the O.L.D. over 25 years ago as a laborer for South Shore Harbor. Today he is a member of a crew operating and maintaining over 200 floodgates throughout the protection system in Orleans Parish. He also volunteers as a bobtail dump trucks operator, cuts grass when additional personnel are required, and takes on high tide surveillance duty during after hour closures of Bayou Bienvenue. Carl always has a positive attitude and can be counted on to complete the scheduled daily tasks. Recently, Carl has asserted himself as an assistant leader to plan, schedule work and obtain required tools in the absence of his foreman supervisor. Carl is always on time, completes his work timely and with skilled workmanship.

Reserve Lt. Carl Mayeaux Recognized as Police Employee of the Month

Reserve Lt. Carl Mayeaux, affectionately known to all as Mr. Carl, is the epitome of professionalism. He triples the time that is required each month for the EJLD reserve division. He shows up an hour early for his shift so he is prepared for his patrol duties and tackles any and all tasks that are asked of him. Mr. Carl has been a valued member of the EJLD Police department for 21 years and is truly the gold standard that all young officers should try to emulate. He goes above and beyond what is expected of him. He is the first reserve to sign up for special events or when a watch is short manpower. His loyalty, devotion to the department and pure honesty are recognized as he pushes others to maximize their daily potential. Mr. Carl is the backbone of not just the reserve division but a highly disciplined and respected member of the EJLD family.
